Geleë op die Suid-Afrikaanse plato, ondervind Carolina tipies seisoenskontraste in sy klimaat: Warm en nat somers en matige tot koue winters. Ryp gedurende die wintermaande is algemeen.

Die gebied is oortrek met gemengde boerdery (melies, skape, suiwel), terwyl klein skaalse steenkool- en edelsteenmynbou die hoof-ekonomiese aktiwiteite voltooi.

Die totale strek is oortrek met baie mere en riviere van uitsonderlike natuurlike skoonheid. Die algemene dreinerings is na die Indiese oseaan met die Komatirivier naby. Die manjifieke Komatirivier dra by tot pekniek, swem, visvang, stap, bootry en 'n oorloed van verskeie voëlspesies.

Carolina is 'n klein dorpie op die Hoëveld van Mpumalanga in die Gert Sibandedistrikt en is die setel van die Albert Luthuli Munisipaliteit. Die dorp is geleë in die gematigde grasveld- en veldandstreek van die provinsie. Dit is ook relatief naby geleë aan die N4-hoofweg tussen die PWV-streek en Maputohavene.

Situated on the South African plateau, Carolina typically experiences seasonal contrasts in its climate: Warm and wet summers and mild to cold and dry winters. Frost during winter nights is common.

The area is covered with mixed farming (maize, sheep, dairy), while small-scale coal and precious-stone mining complete the major economic activities.

The entire region is dotted with an abundance of lakes and rivers of exceptional natural beauty. The general drainage is towards the Indian Ocean with the Komati River nearby. The magnificent Komati Gorge allows for picnicking, swimming, fishing, hiking, boating and an abundance of varied bird species.

Carolina is a small town on the Highveld of Mpumalanga in the Gert Sibande District and is the seat of the Albert Luthuli Municipality. The town lies in the temperate grassland and wetland region of the province. It is also situated relatively close to the N4 highway between the PWV region and Maputo harbour.
